Prepared. For Life.®

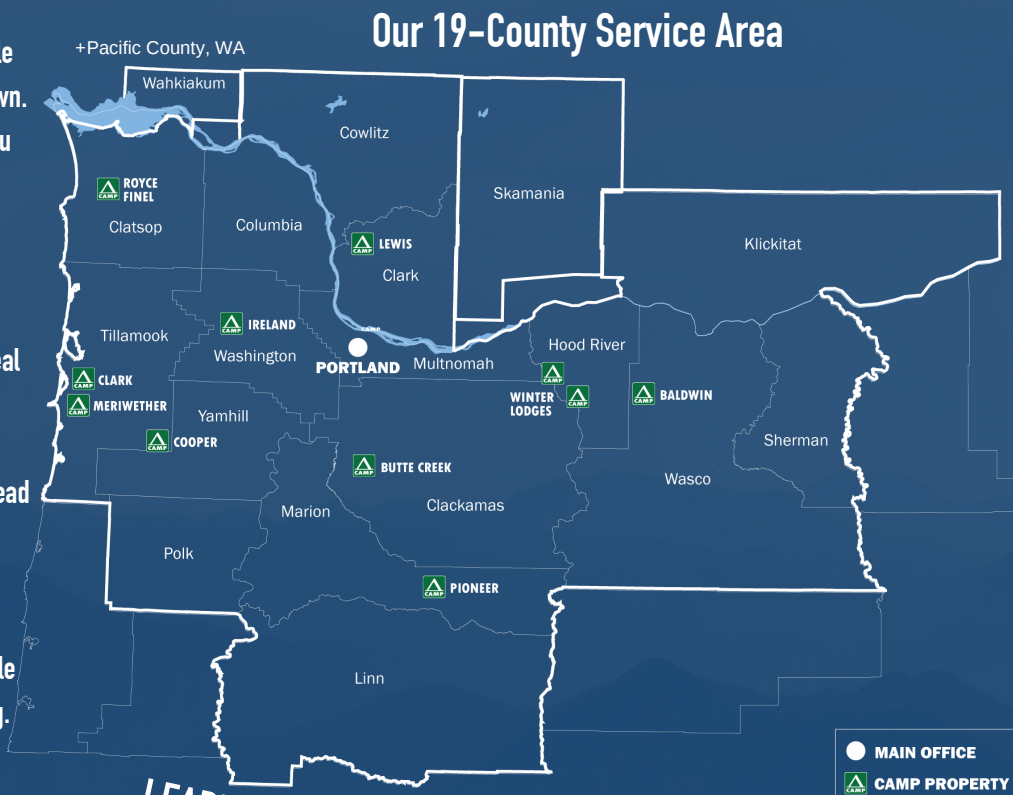

There are some things in life you just can't learn from a screen or in a classroom. Like the grit you discover at mile ten of a trail. The courage it takes to step up, not back down. And the responsibility of leading others—not because you have to, but because you're ready.

This is Scouting America in the Cascade Pacific Council.

But it's not just camping and knots. It's real adventure. Real growth. Real grit. And real life.

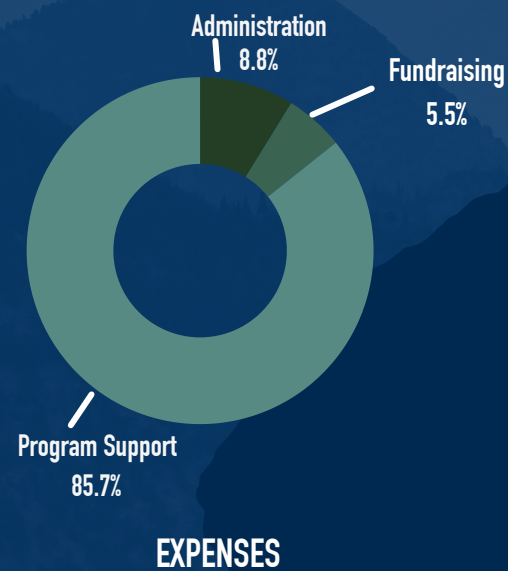

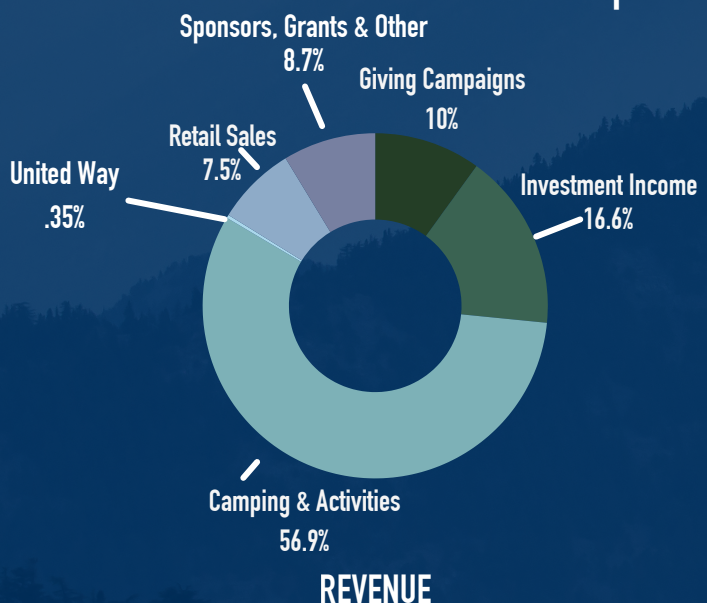

For more than 100 years, young people have learned to lead when it's hard. To push through when it's uncomfortable. To find strength—in themselves and in each other. Every hike. Every badge. Every moment—it's building something bigger. Not just a Scout but a future leader, role model and a confident, courageous, capable human being.

Join us as we embark on this new journey at CPCSCOUTING.ORG/IMPACT to learn how you can help us help today's youth become Prepared. For Life.
